THE SINS OF THE PARENT DR. CLARK

Especially terrible does it seem that children should be born into the world-as they frequently are-having in their little innocent bodies the germs of Specific Blood Polson, or, more frequently, Scrofula, which is, as a rule, the result of Specific Blood Poison in some ancestor.

It would be an outlook almost too intolerable to contemplate if such scourges as scrofula and other forms of blood poisoning were incurable.

Yet for long centuries these diseases have baffled the most skillful medical science.

Men and women in the past have resorted to cures for this disease which were almost as obnoxious and dangerous as the dis-

FOERG'S REMEDY.

To Whom It May Concern:

We have two little twin girls that were badly affilted with Scrotula. After trying three of the best doctors we could employ they continued to get worse all the while. I was advised by a triend to try Foorg's Remedy, so I procured one bottle, and it has eured them sound and well. This was four years ago, and no sign of return, so I cannot say too much for this medicina, for I think it is the best blood medicine in the world.

Grand Jury Finds True Bills Against Two of the Women Charged With Murder.

The initial term of the new Circuit Court of Henrico county began yeaterday. Judge R. Carter Scott was on the beach for the first time in a regular sitting and before the day closed he had won court officers and everything else to his side. His strong and able rulings were pleasing to rll and his very evident intention to command the utinost spect for the discipline of the court a feature of the day.

spect for the discipline of the court was a teatury of the day.

The most notative case of the day was the uppeal of C. N. Wyait, the recent candidate for Justice of the peace, who was charged with parmitting gaming in the saloon attached to his grocery store in the county. Wyait was punished severely by "Squire Lewis, who revoach his litense, flazed him also and required him to give security in the sum of 4100 for twelve months. A hard light was made yesterday in the Circuit Court by Wyait's altorneys, Messrs, Edwald L. Kyan and James R. Russell, and contrary to the expectations of many the appeal was won. Wyait was discharged by the jury. Two of the Commonwealth's witnesses, Ed. Clossley and John Gentry, failed to Etc. First of Twentieth Course of Thomas Lectures at Richmond College.

THE PROBLEM OF MONOPOLY

Phis Important Question Under Discussion by Able Speaker and Publicist.

The first of the twentieth course of the Thomas lectures was delivered in the chapel of Richmond College list evening by John B. Clark, Ph. D., LL. D., Pro-

A cultured, a tentive and deeply inter-ested audience enjoyed the address of the able speaker and distinguished pub-licist.

the able speaker and distinguished publicist.

The gereral theme of the course, which will conset of four lecture, is "The Problem of Monopoly."

The introductory lecture of last night, and it was intended to be merely introductory, was on "The Growth of Corporations."

The lecturer was gracefully and happily introduced by Dr. Boatwright, the president of the college. The word "introduced" is used here in its proper meaning, for Dr. Boatwright really introduced is used here in its proper meaning, for Dr. Boatwright really introduced is speaker to his audience and the audience to the speaker.

A PHENOMENA.

Dr. Clark commenced by referring to the rise and quarter of a century progress of great industrial corporations in this country as a phenomena. Able, but mistaken, writers had predicted that corporations could never attain growth in this free country. Adam Smith announced the theory that only such business as was conducted by the actual owners could win. In later years J. S. Mill, another profound thinker, declared the belief that only a few departments of business would ever be given over to corporations could hope to survive against the competition of the individual. Both of these distinguished writers based their prophecies upon the theory that no business managed by hired officials could stand agairst a competing business managed by the more intensely interested owner. Nevertheless, it now seems to be the rule that nothing but a corporation can survive, and only the larger ones at that.

can survive, and only the larger ones at that.

CARNIVOROUS CREATURES.

The speaker spoke somewhat himorous, ly of the carnivorous propentities and labits of corporations, and declared that the big animais eat up the little ones and the large lish swallow the small ones in these days of gignitic corporations in ways that are new and by methods that are modern. The old rule of the survival of the fittest has been abbreviour of the survival of the fittest has been abbreviour of the survival of the fittest has been abbreviour of the survival of the fittest has been abbreviour of the survival of the fittest has been abbreviour who can serve the public with a given article at the lowest price, that is to say, who can preduce it at the least cost. This kind of competition was made more effective by the inventor La or-saving machinery and improved transportation labits were the two greatest ads.

LESSENING THE COST.

Improvements in agricultural machinery were referred to, and the speaker showed flow, in the marier of sowing, reaping, cleaning and bagging what, the furmer of to-day can do more thin forty, times what one clud have done in colonial days and with traction engines to draw plows, arrows, etc., an acte or wheat can be sown, raised, eathered and sacked at a cost of §1. It was demonstrated by figures, taken from occan steamship expended the burning of a half a sheet of note paper males sufficient steam to carry a ton of freight a mile. These things led taturally to the employment of less lator and the making or better goods.

The flual step in the process was the formation of those things known by us as trusts. tuous banquet will be served in the official life.

It was stated yesterday that a bottle of Virginia wino, the Monificello variety, will be used for the christoring. A Charlottesville firm tendered the Governor a case of wine for the purpose. Little Miss Matilda Gay Montague, the Governor's daughter, will christen the giant steel vessel, in the view of cheering thousands.

The speaker here reviewed at some length the process by which the average riust is formed and comp red the modern methods with the old. He declared that America is the natural home of the trust. The German kartel, which flourishes also to some extent in Ergland, is only about a first cous n to the America is trust. The German kartel, which flourishes also to some extent in Ergland, is only about a first cous n to the American trust. The original American trust was of the type followhere agreements were made among a hundred, more or less, manufacturers to maintain prices and terms and prevent over-production, each maintaining separatic existence and conducting separatic existence and conducting separatic existence of the whole arrangement. Then the German kartel was tred. American law discouraged the waster that the combine to seek another method.

CRUSHING OUT RIVALS.

At that pools and kartels were offective enough in stopping present sharp competition and stopping over-production, but they could not, or did not, crush out inspondent rivals. To do that it was absolutely necessary to have a communipurse. The speaker here showed how a strong trust will invade the limited territo y of a local rival and can well afford to loze money in twenty cities to which the local rival is confined, while making be profits in two hundred other cities that the local rival cannot reach. This is the trusts' love other weapons, prominent among which is the control HOW FORMED.

The speaker then briefly discussed the effect of trusts upen ber, and declared that, unloss some influence inside or outside provents. American trusts from carrying out their processed schemes, we are a proaching a regime of monopoly that will not only control trade and trailic, demand and supply, but politics and government as well.

The saving and inspiring fact is that no organization of power can have the power to do anything against society that the community objects to. Concentration really means economy, and the trusts use to say they did not mean to raise prices, but to cut down expenses, and so far they have keep that promise and yet keep up wages there can be no complaint of trusts. That condition, can be attained and attained the side of the millenium, an ora in which that people are determined to control in five or six ways. Trusts and combines will continue forever. The question is, shall we control them, and how? These questions will be answered in other fectures of the course. The subject to night will be "Organized Labor and Mononilles."
